

table of contents

Views Projects Quotes Overview

	Facebook
	Sponsorship
	Colophon
	Rear View

Dreamland

eleven photographs by Stefan Bleihauer

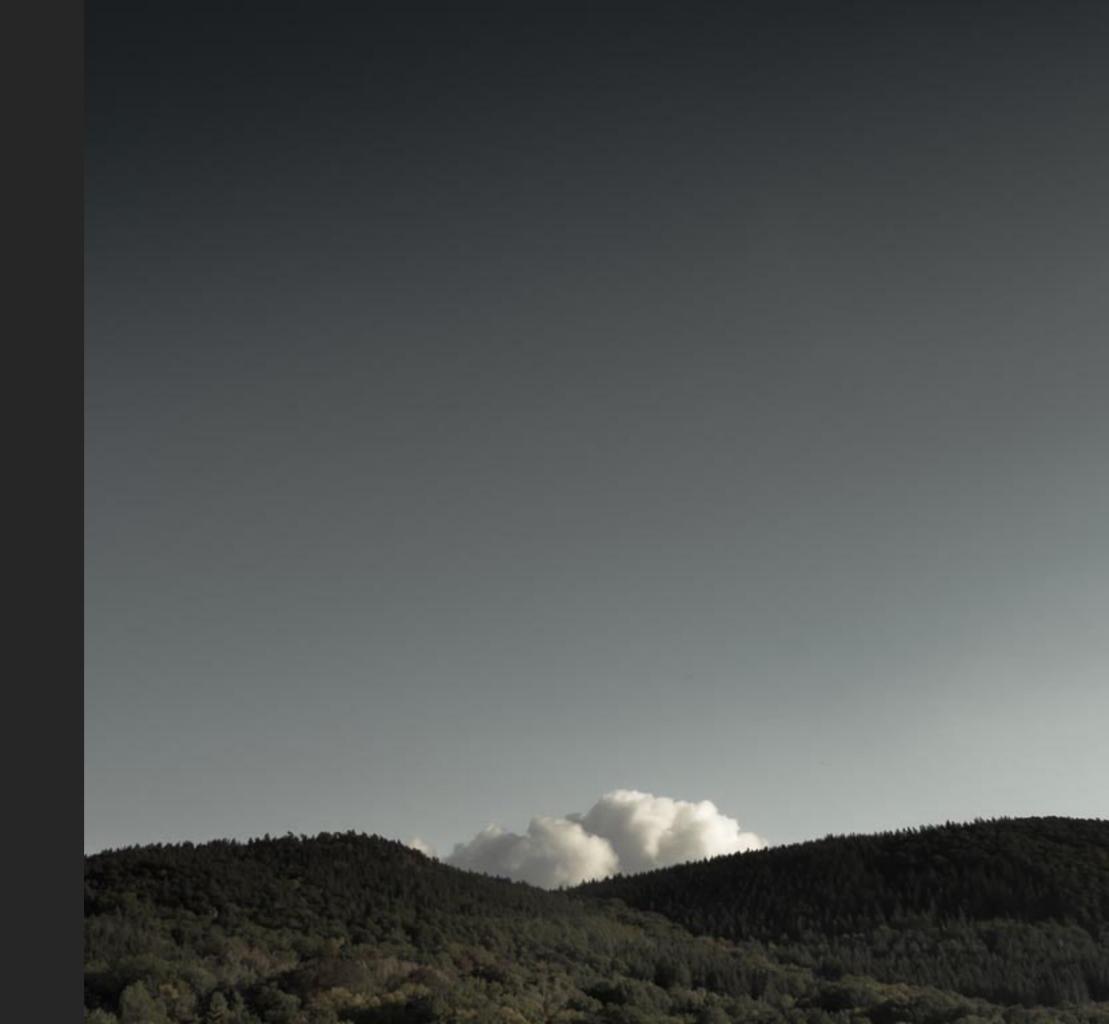

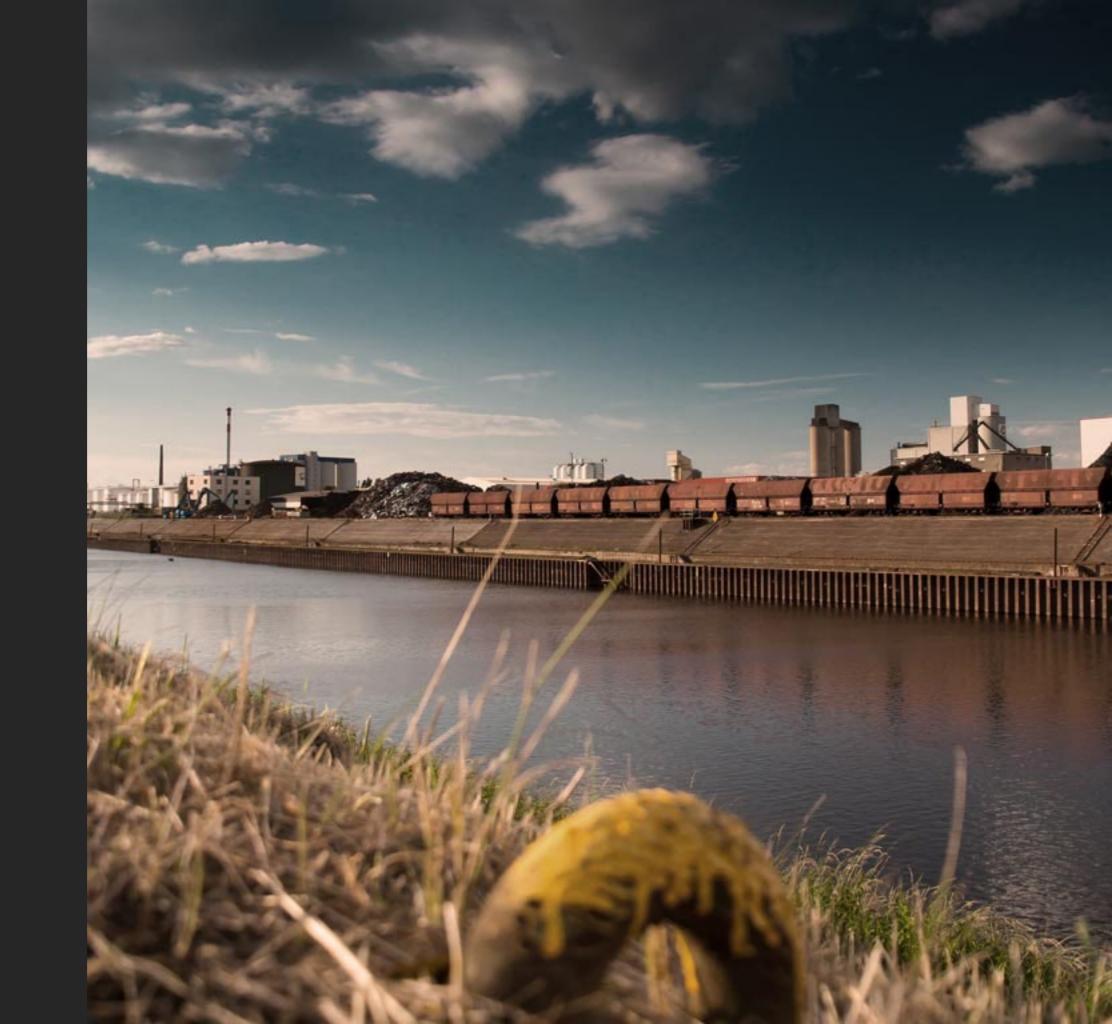

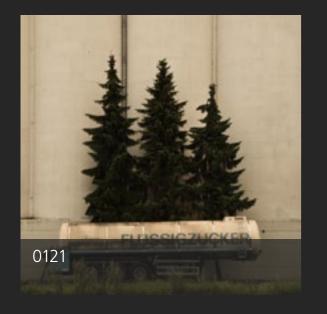

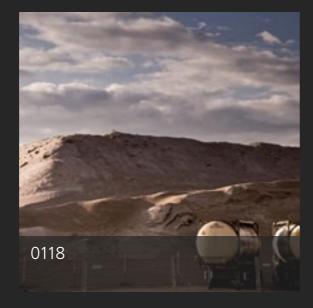

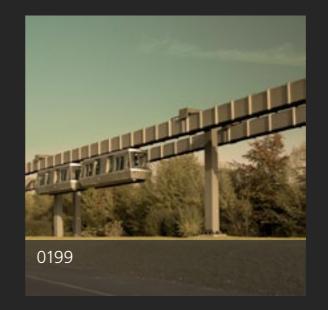

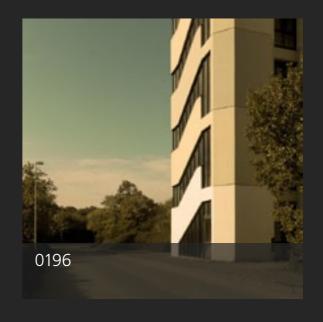

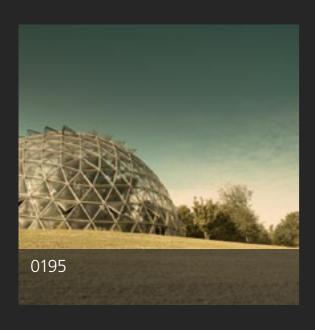

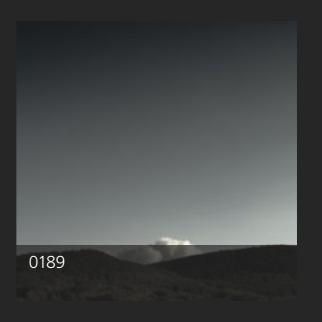

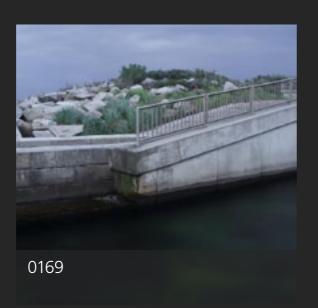

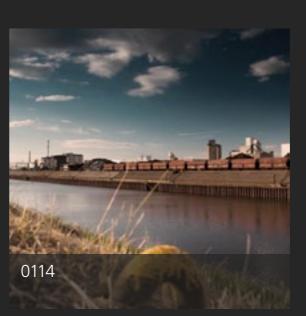

I take photos of inconspicuous things.

Hi. My name is Stefan.

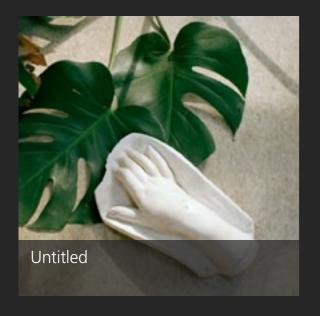

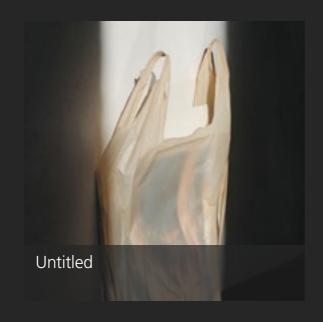

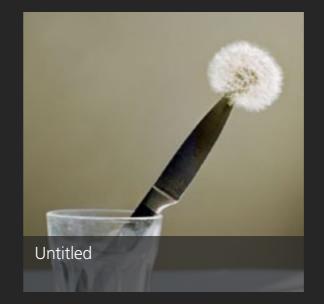

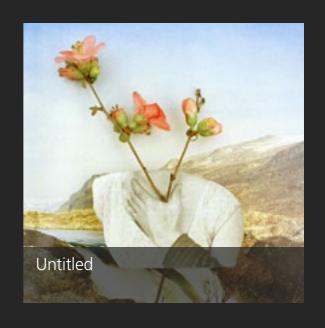

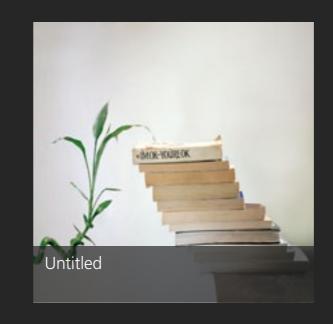

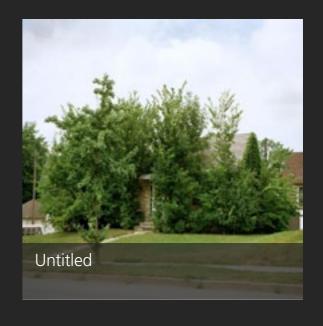

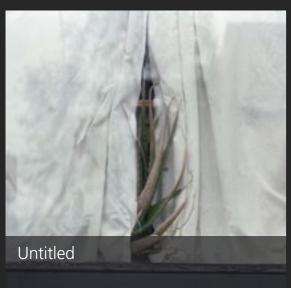

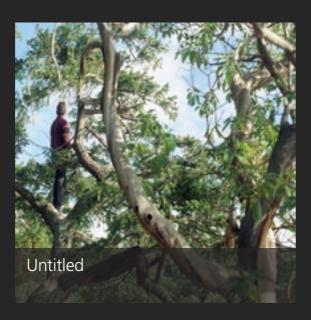

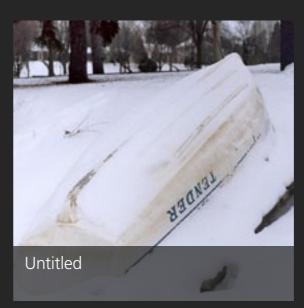

Bridget Collins

Trying to reconnect.

Fortune cookie, Golden Wok

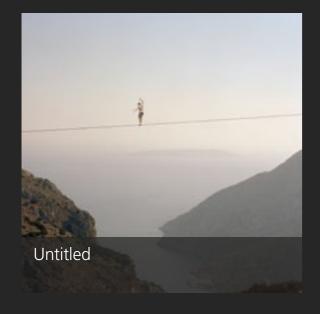

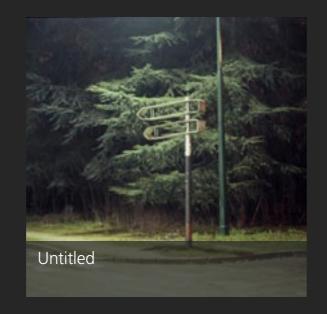

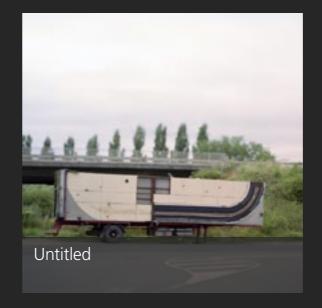

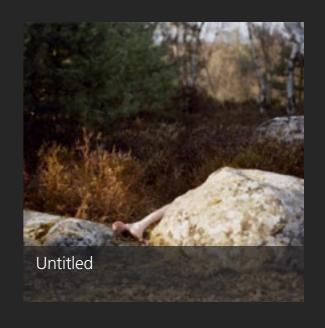

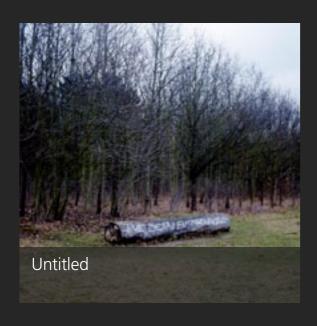

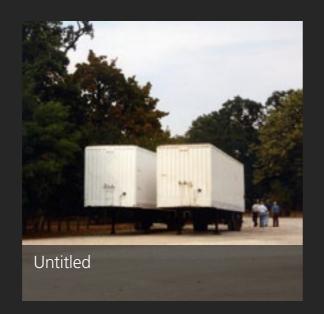

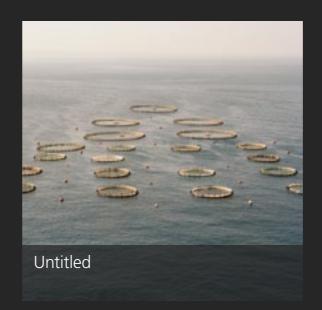

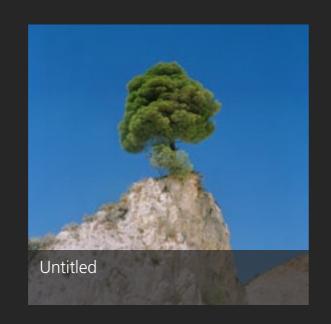

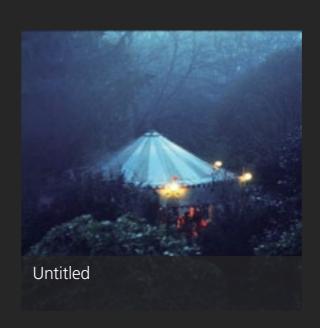

Sylvain-Emmanuel Prieur
I was born in France in 1976, and I live in Paris. I'm a self taught photographer, and I do work
analogue only, with all formats
from 135mm to large format 4'x5',
I took part of a couple of international group exhibition, but not yet any solo one, that's pants: Years old. But still one of my all time favs. I was on the way into the building when they passed outside. I asked them whether I could take a pic. They stood in the perfect spot and got into that pose for me.

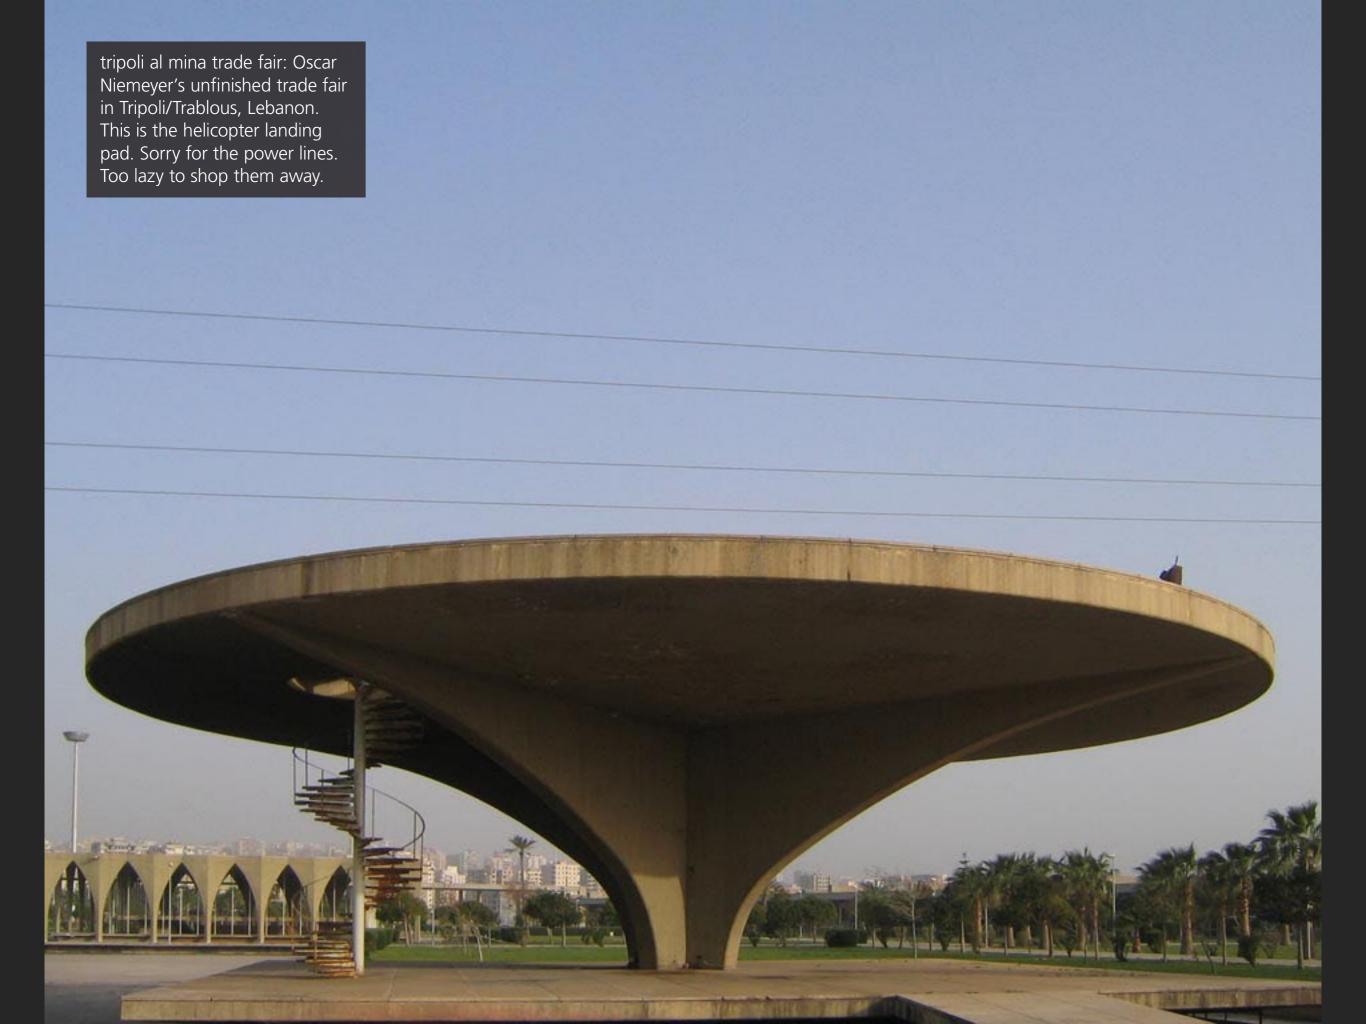

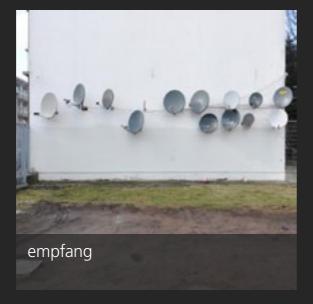

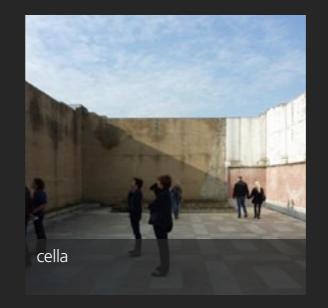

Pale / Legacy: In Damascus, in the immediate vicinity of the Hedjaz-Station.

ghost town: Bosra, Hauran, Syria. This is to show solidarity and to admire the braveness of the Syrian people.

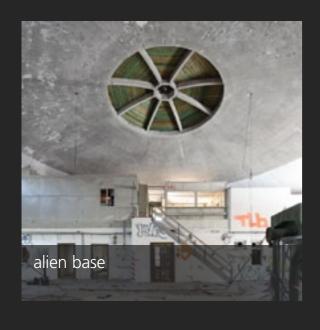

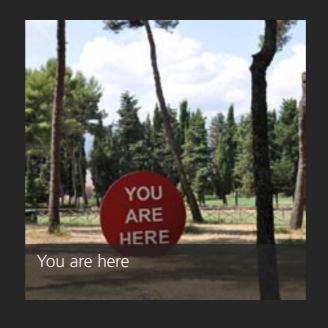

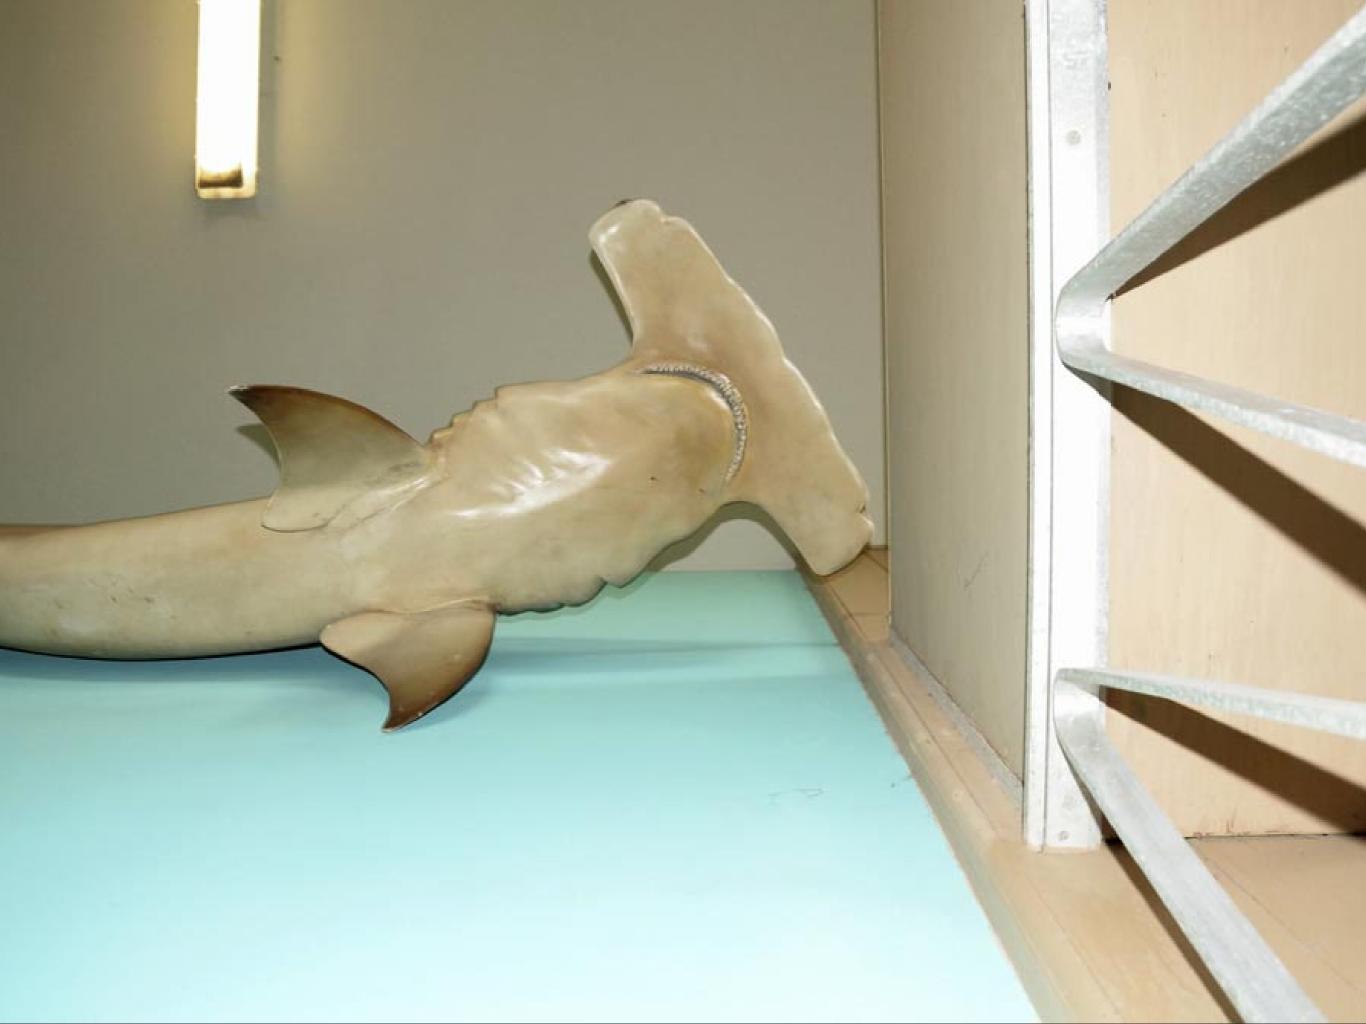

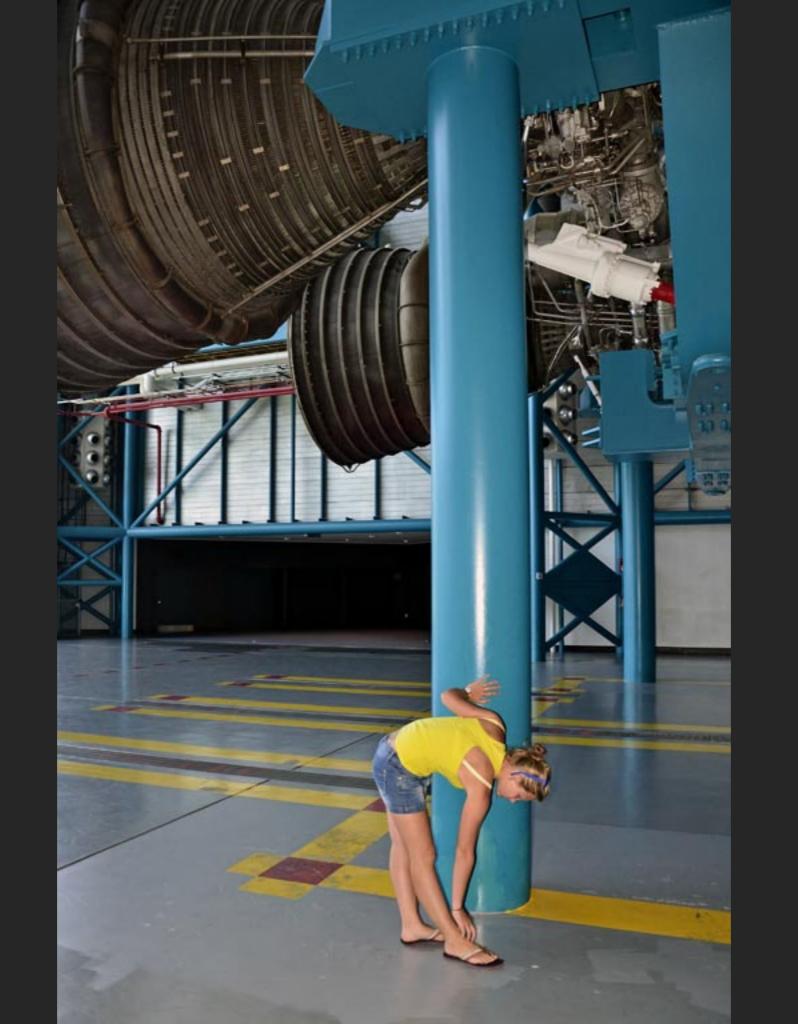

I work as an architectural historian and university teacher. Before studying architecture I was trained as a press photographer. When traveling I use the camera as a tool to understand and document a society's constructions. My work has taken me to places like Lebanon, Syria and Afghanistan, Simon Kossoff From Brighton, England now living in Kansas City.

I arrived in America when the recession was beginning to bite. It was an election year and both discontent and a need for change was in the air. Gas prices were rising

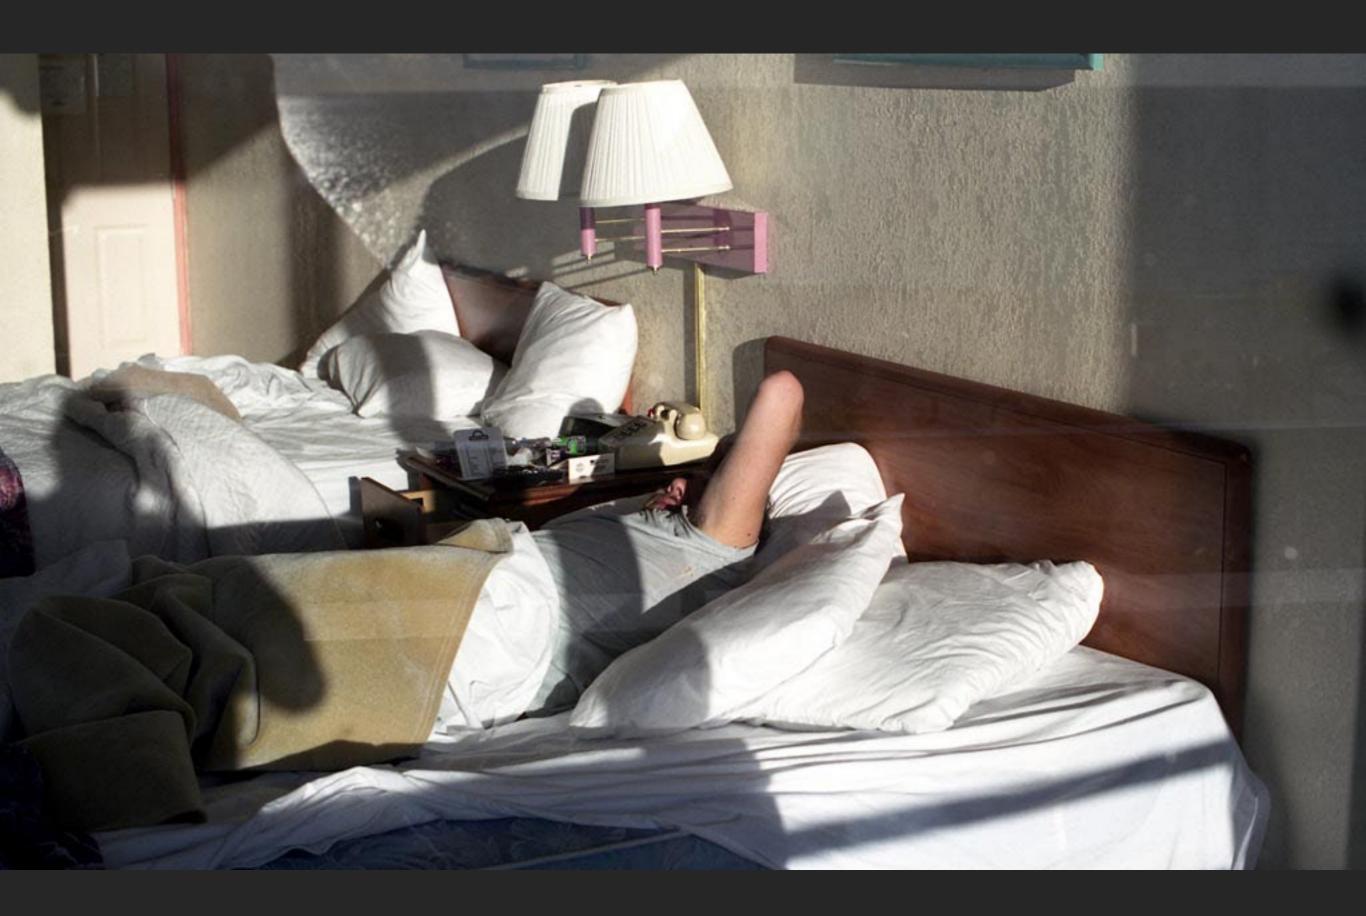

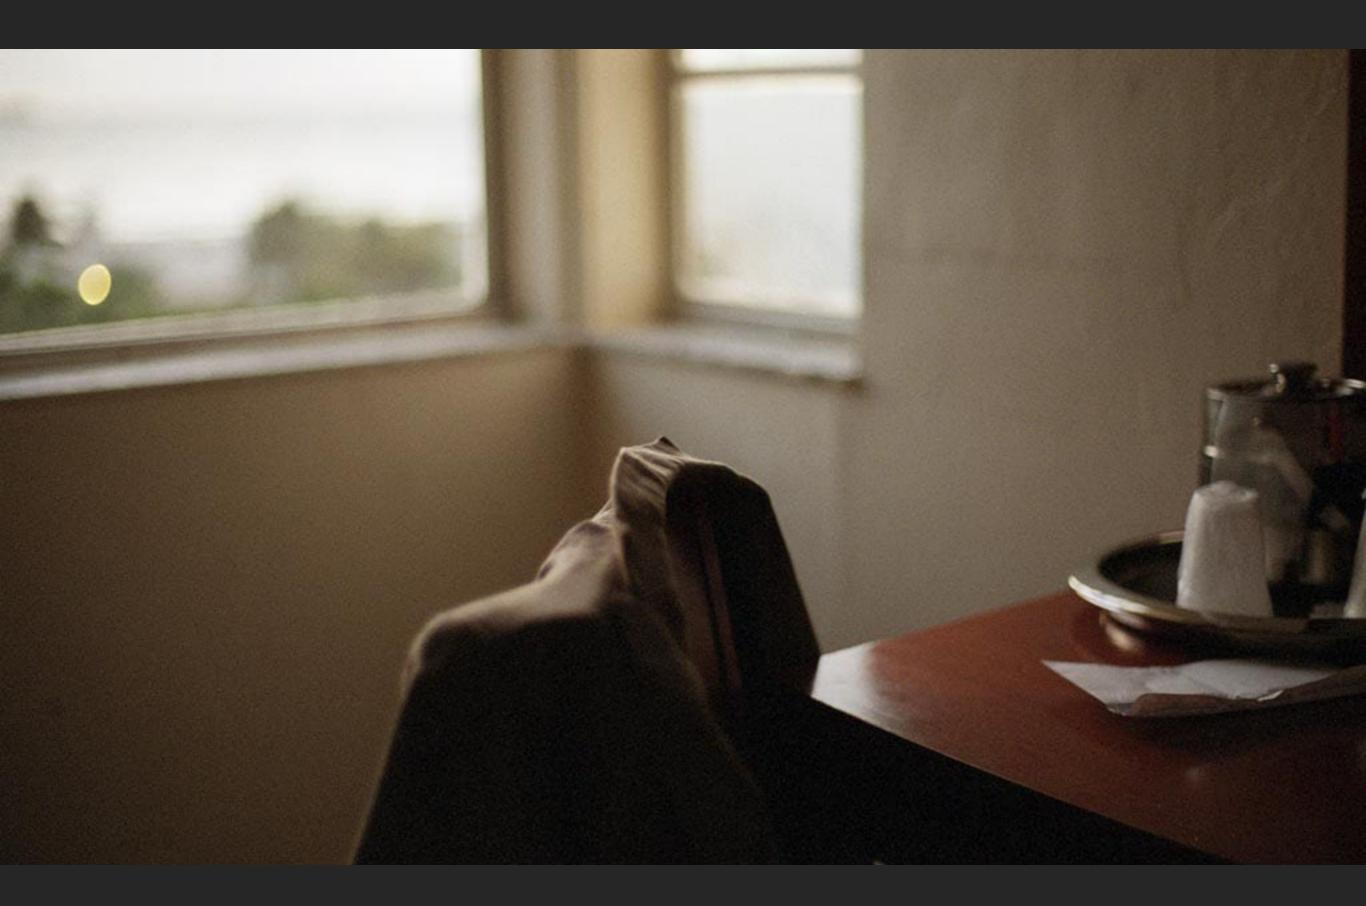

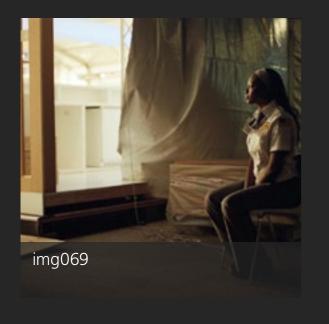

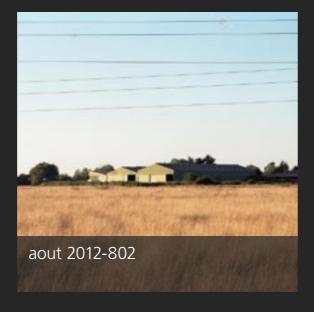

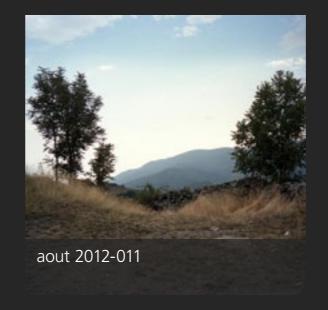

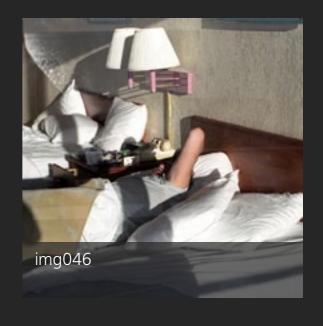

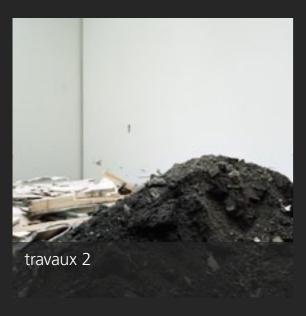

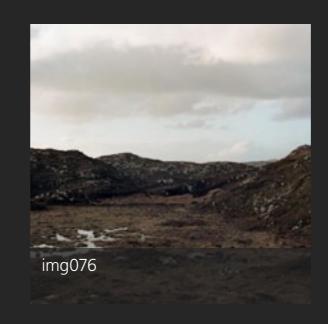

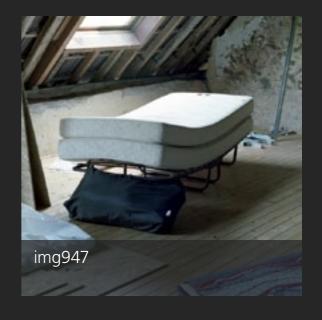

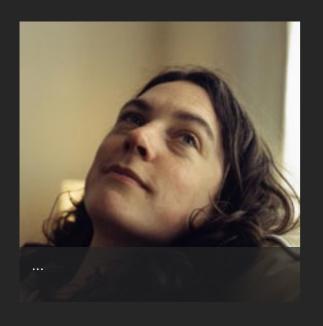

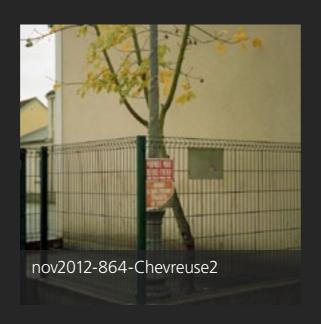

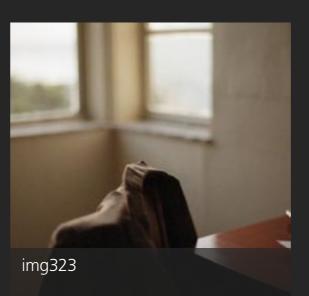

András Vari

Born in Budapest, Hungary, living and working in a design gallery in Paris, France. Fine arts studies, mainly abstract painting.

"Landscape, heads and naked women are called artistic photography, while photographs of current events are called press photography."

- Alexander Rodchenko in "The Paths of Modern Photography", 1928

While You Were Away: Syria

Highlighting citizen's photography from around the world – one place at a time

Officially the Syrian Arab Republic, is a country in Western Asia, bordering Lebanon and the Mediterranean Sea to the West, Turkey to the north, Iraq to the east, Jordan to the south and Israel to the southwest.

In English, the name Syria was formerly synonymous with the Levant, known in Arabic as al-Sham, while the modern state encompasses the sites of several ancient kingdoms and empires, including the Eblan civilization of the third millennium BC. In the Islamic era, its capital city, Damascus, the oldest continuously inhabited city in the world, was the seat of the Umayyad Caliphate, and a provincial capital of the Mamluk Sultanate of Egypt.

The modern Syrian state was established after the First World War as a French mandate, and represented the largest Arab state to emerge from the formerly Ottoman-ruled Arab Levant. It gained independence in April 1946, as a parliamentary republic. The post-independence period was tumultuous, and a large number of military coups and coup attempts shook the country in the period 1949–1971. Between 1958 and 1961, Syria entered a brief union with Egypt, which was terminated by a military coup. Syria was under Emergency Law from 1963 to 2011, effectively suspending most constitutional protections for citizens, and its system of government is considered to be non-democratic. Bashar al-Assad has been president since 2000 and was preceded by his father Hafez al-Assad, who was in office from 1971.

Syria is a member of one International organization other than the United Nations, the Non-Aligned Movement; it is currently suspended from the Arab League, the Organisation of Islamic Cooperation, and self suspended from the Union for the Mediterranean.

Since March 2011, Syria has been embroiled in civil war in the wake of uprisings (considered an extension of the Arab Spring, the mass movement of revolutions and protests in the Arab world) against Assad and the neo-Ba'athist government. This conflict has resulted in sanctions against Syria by the international community aimed at trade and government officials by the countries of the Arab League, Australia, Canada, the European Union, (as well as the European countries of Albania, Croatia, Iceland, Liechtenstein, Macedonia, Moldova, Montenegro, Norway, Serbia, and Switzerland)

Syria

Photos: The Syrian Revolution Memory Project; lucifergumdrop.

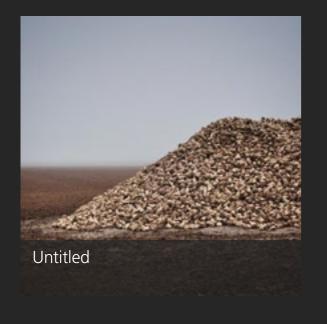

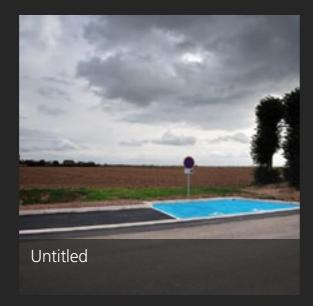

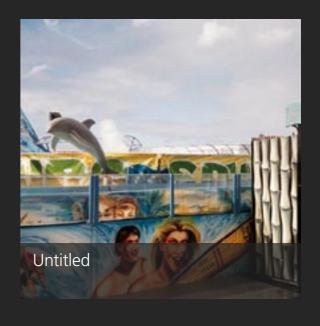

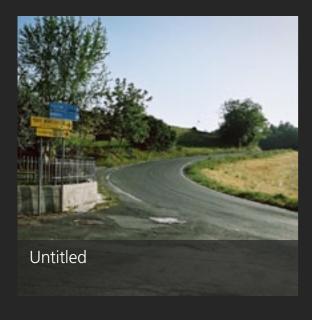

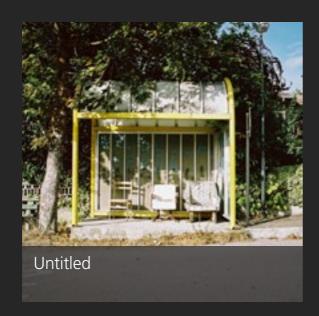

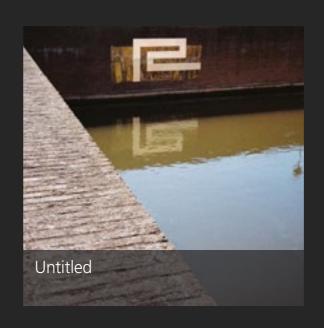

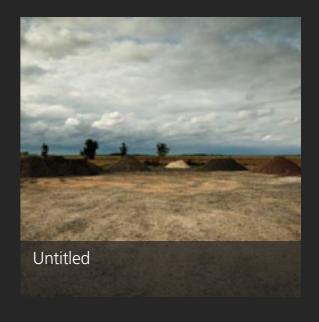

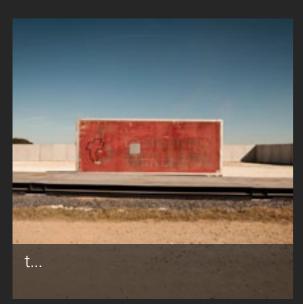

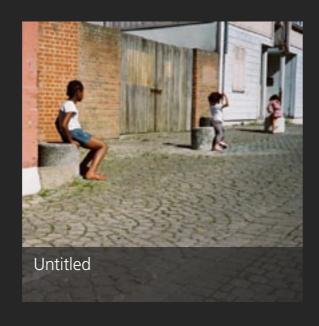

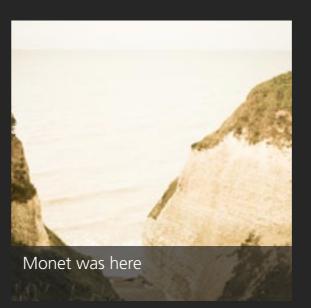

Guillaume Abgrall

Born in '72, living in northern France (Picardy), teacher in the real life. I take pictures of the world as I see it, from the place where I stand. I stand somewhere and I think "there is a picture here", then I take it. I work sometimes with a DSLR,

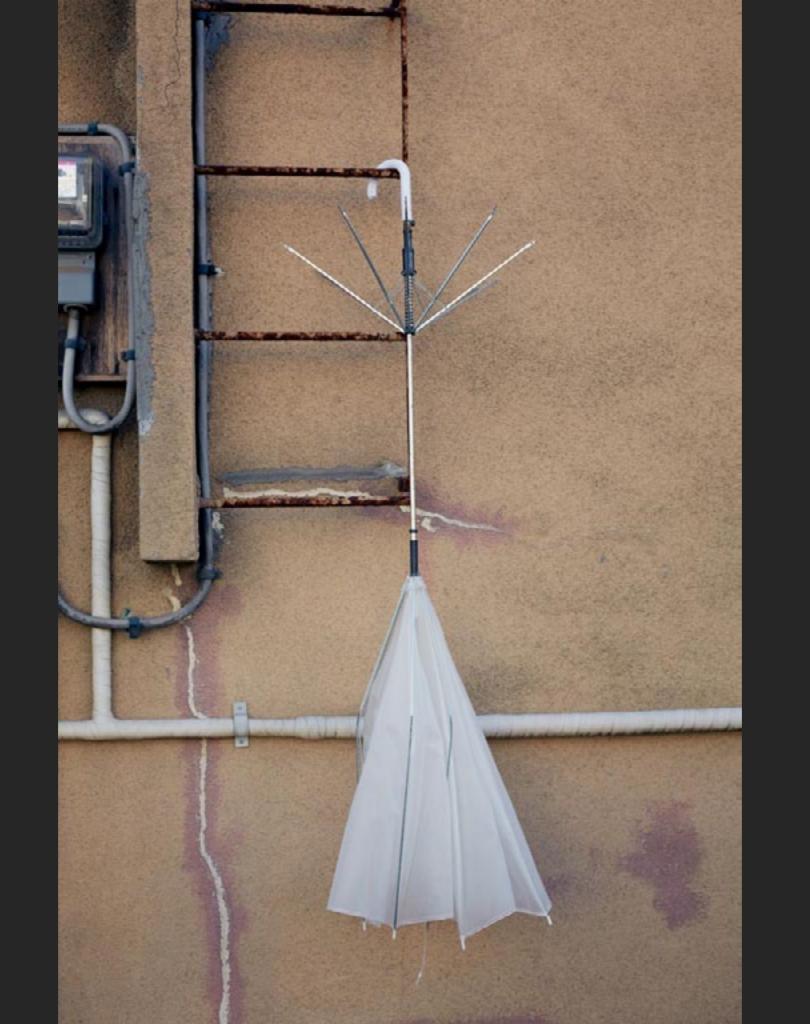

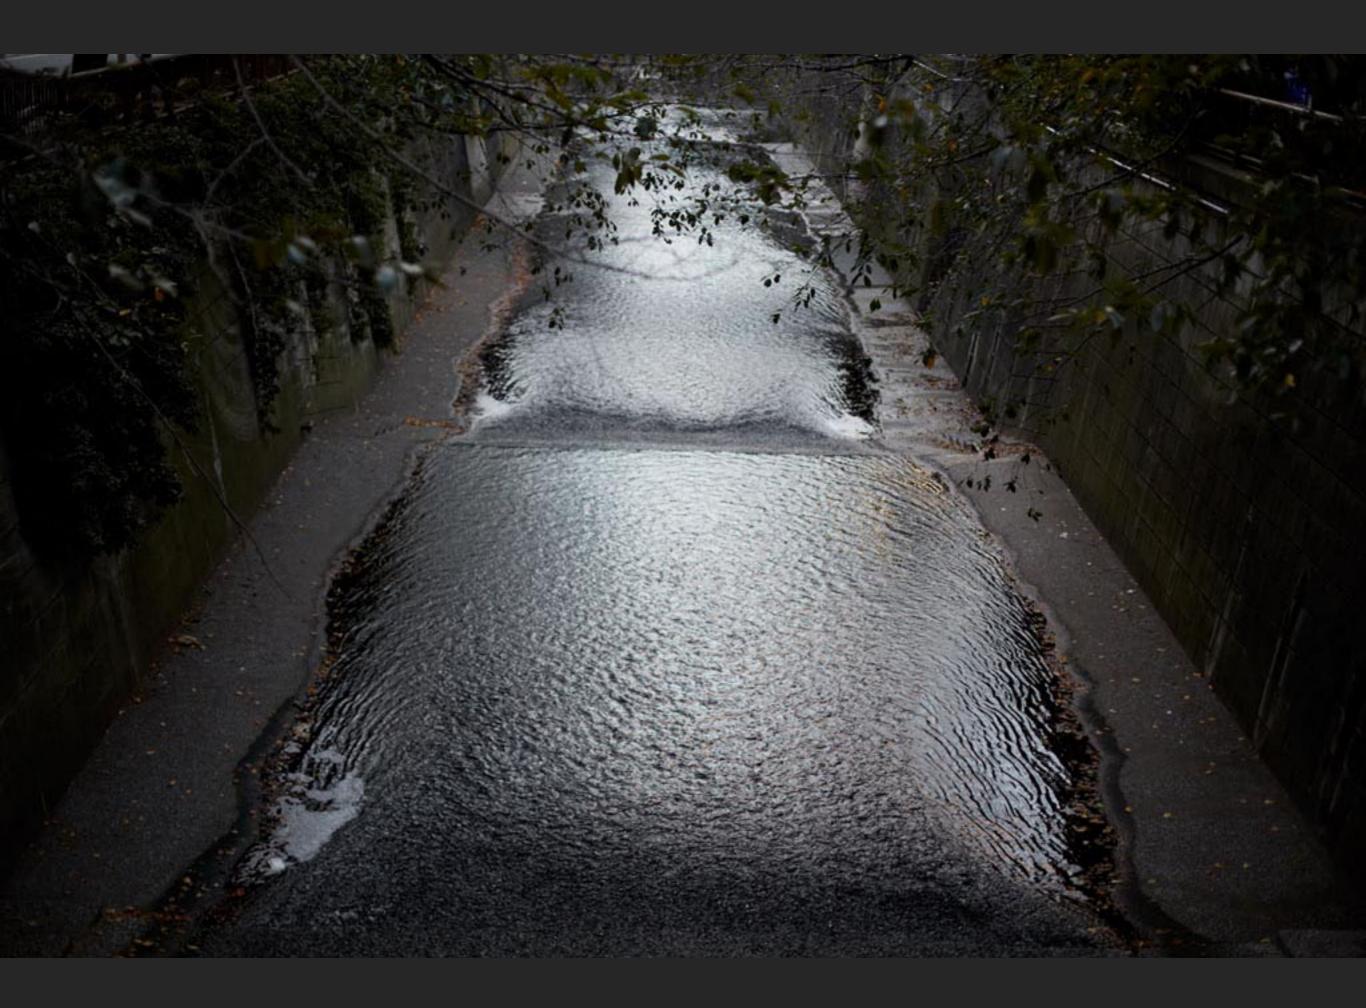

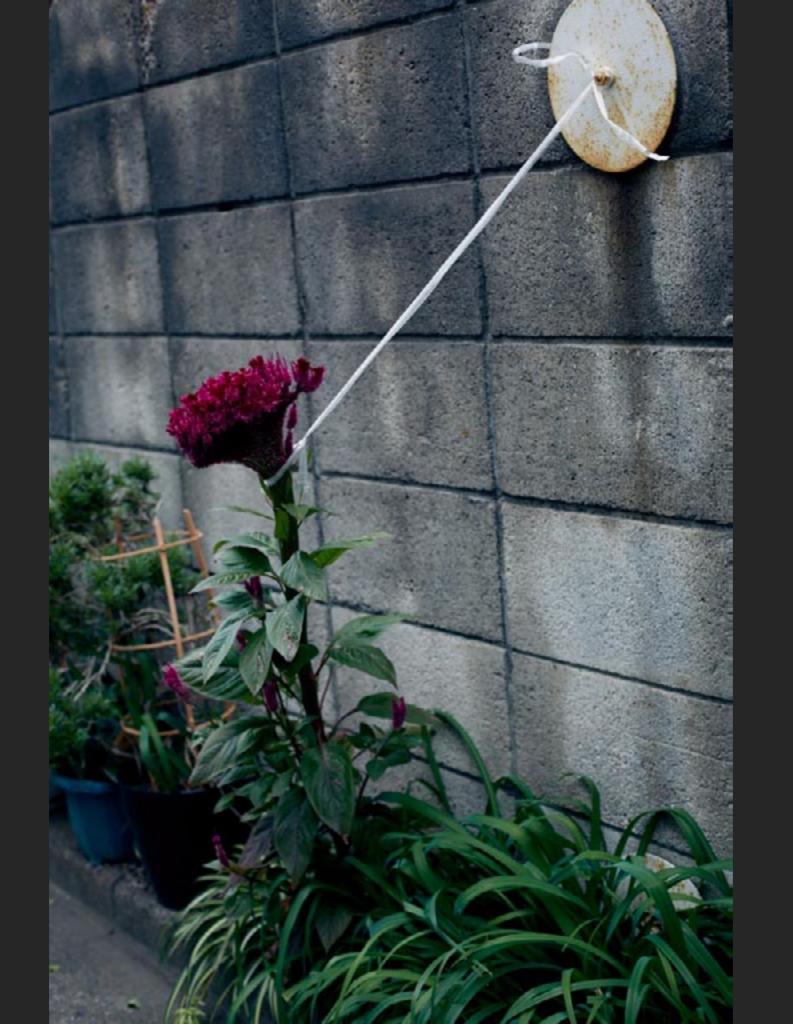

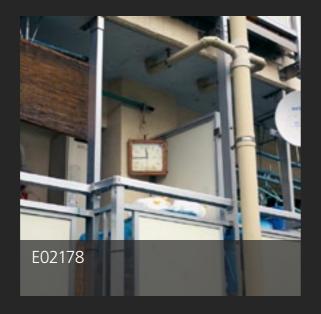

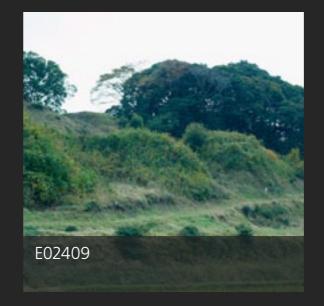

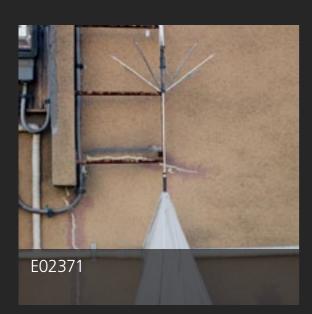

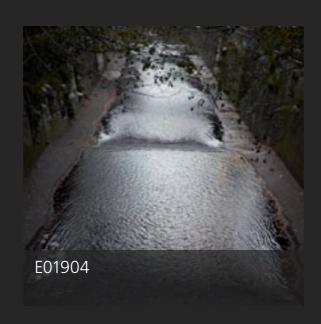

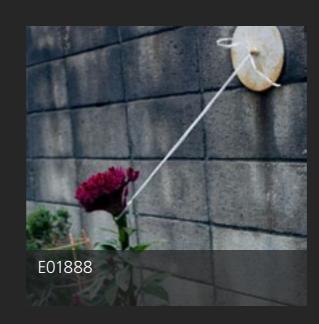

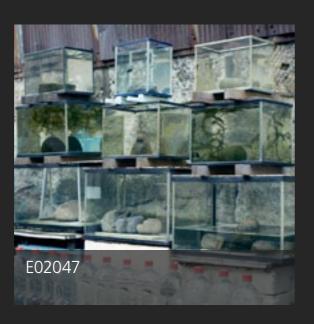

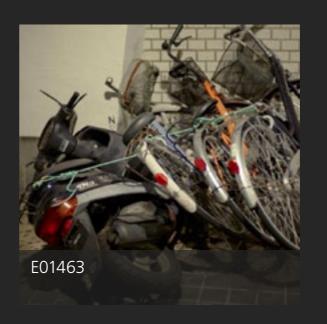

I live in Tokyo, Japan. My name is Ryuji Sakamoto. I have no history as a photographer so I have no bio to speak of. I am not a professional.

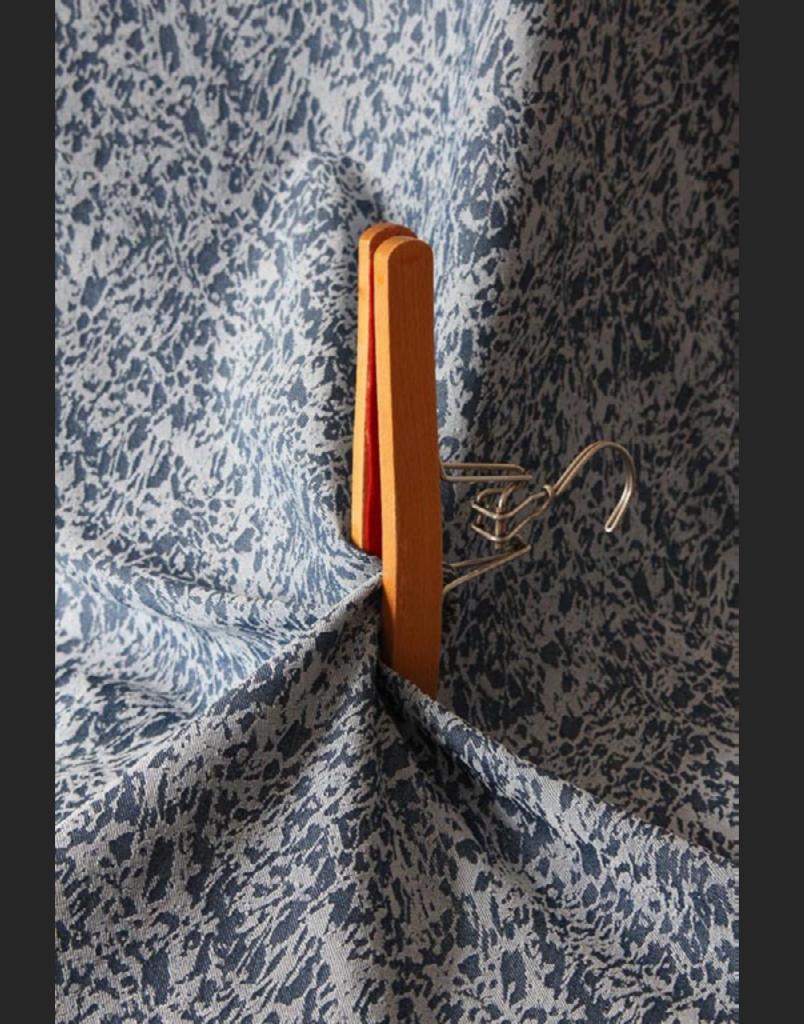

"Light makes photography. Embrace light. Admire it. Love it. But above all, know light. Know it for all you are worth, and you will know the key to photography."

ELEVEN PHOTOGRAPHS

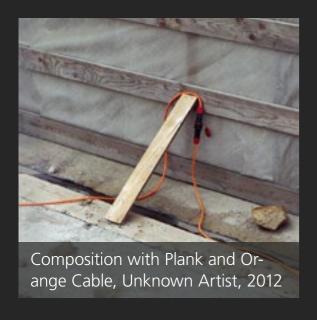

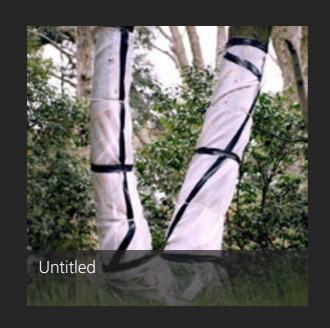

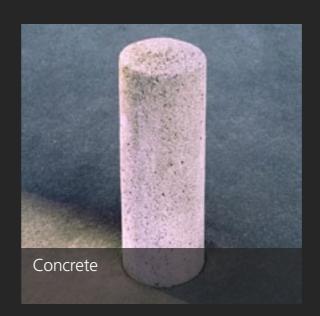

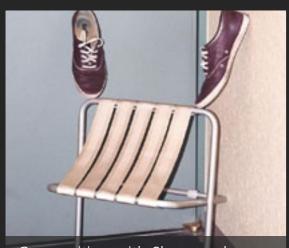

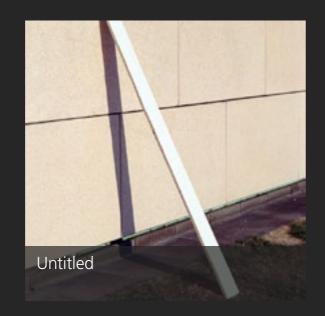

Thomas Albdorf was born as Thomas Wieflingseder in Linz, Upper Austria in 1982. After working for several years as a Graphic Designer / Art Director for various companies and clients, he currently studies Transmediale Kunst at the University of Applied Arts, Vienna. Despite working

Composition with Shoes and Folding Chair, Ueno 2012

Facebook

Get social with View on the web. Join us on Facebook for news about the next issue and more.

WHAT'S YULR VIEWP

Any thoughts, suggestion or comments you think we should hear about?

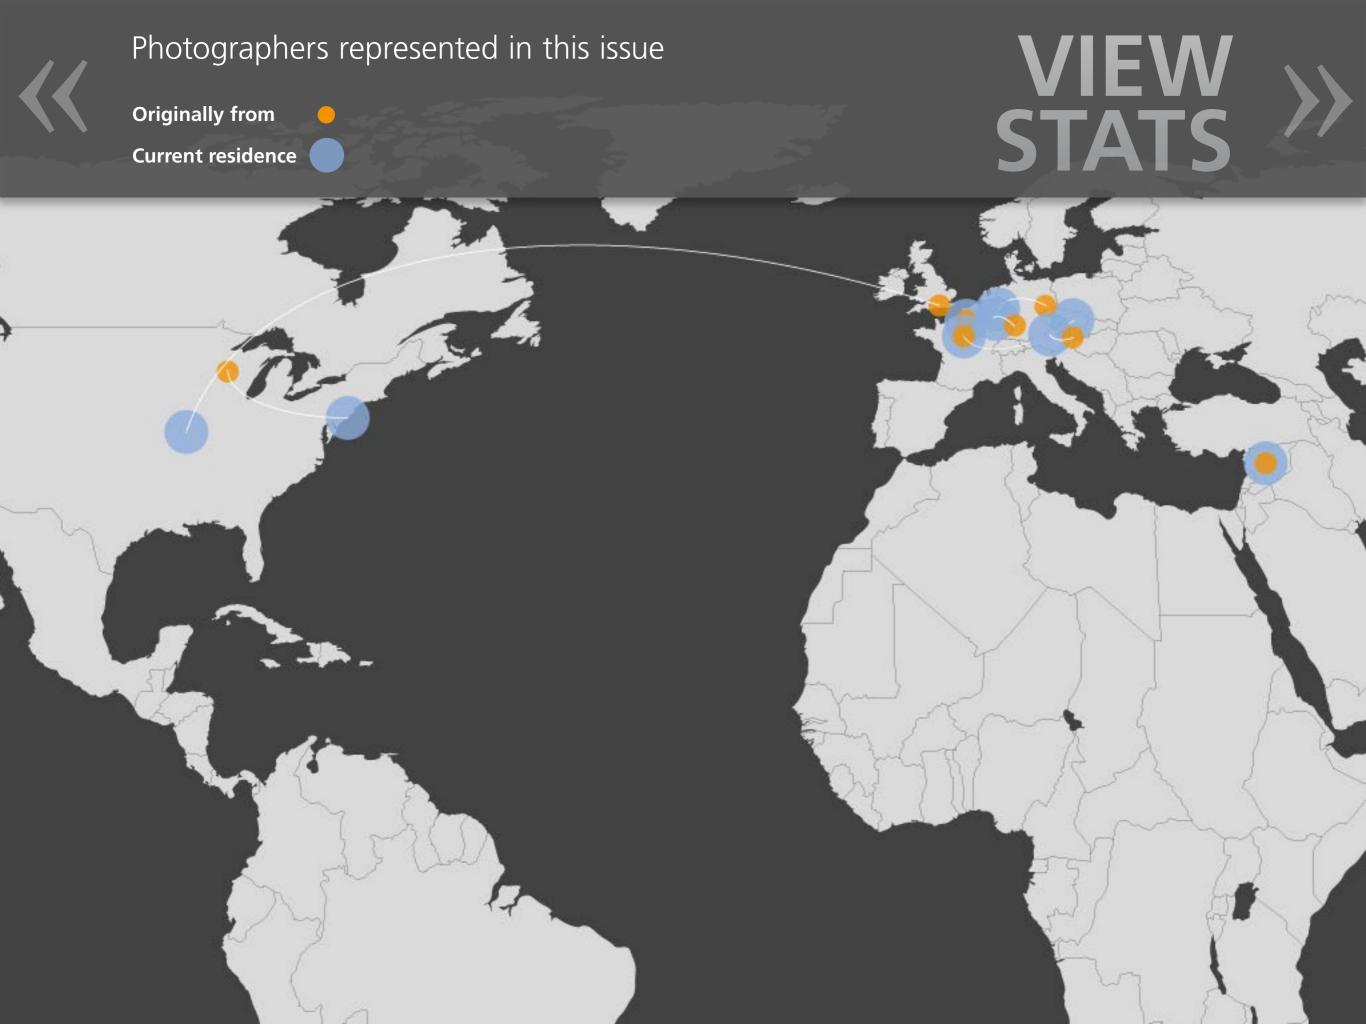

Do tell.

sponsorship

image/words iPad app

A poetic discovery tool for photographers and writers. Just choose a photo from your album (or from one of our publicly hosted images), add freeform text and you're done! Experiment with your text, thoughts or poems. The text can be large, small, transparent or opaque, colorful and with a variety of fonts.

Issue 5

Colophon

twitter: @fusionlab

facebook: on.fb.me/viewzine

Editor

Alon Koppel

Editorial Assistance

Melissa Weaver

Research

Rodney Olson

Design

Alon Koppel

Published by

FusionLab, Inc.

www.fusionlab.com

Typography

Akzidenz Grotesk, Frutiger, Helvetica Neue and Steson.

Production

While no paper was used during the production of this magazine, plenty of electrons were bounced around.

Contributors in this issue

Guillaume Abgrall
Thomas Albdorf
Stefan Bleihauer
Bridget Collins
Simon Kossoff
Daniel Lohmann
Sylvain-Emmanuel Prieur
Ryuji Sakamoto
The Syrian Revolution Memory Project

Contact

András Vari

Click here to send us your thoughts, comments or links.

Copyright Information

All the materials in VIEW are copyrighted by the respective artists.

VIEW is published quarterly by FusionLab, Inc.

Copyright © 2011-2012. No responsibility can be accepted for unsolicited content.

Rear View

Manifesto*

No fashion photography.

No photos of sunsets.

No non-historical black & white photography.

* Not written in stone.